

Fail to Name New Commissioner

Council Takes Four Stabs at Filling Vacancy

First Official Attempts to Name Williams' Successor

The Harrisburg city council Tuesday afternoon took four unsuccessful stabs at naming a finance commissioner.

Mayor Claud Gibbons submitted first the name of Jess Hunsaker, then of Pat Gilley, and the appointments were seconded by Commissioner Morris Darnell.

On roll call Commissioners Charles R. Hine and Sneed Jordan voted no and tie votes resulted. Then Hine brought up the name of Ernest Duncan and this choice was seconded by Jordan, but Gibbons and Darnell voted no.

Fourth name up, that of Lloyd Horn, was submitted by Commissioner Jordan, who received a second from Hine, and again Gibbons and Darnell voted no.

Thus the first official attempt to name a successor to replace Finance Commissioner Don Williams, whose office was declared vacant after he moved outside the city limits, ended in failure.

Matter Brought Up By Mayor

The matter of filling the vacancy was brought up by Mayor Gibbons, who first asked that the council records show there was a vacancy in the office.

After approval of a motion to show that there was a vacancy Gibbons said:

"This brings us down to a point that should have been discussed a long time ago. . . I think we should have a finance commissioner appointed here and approved to take the place of Commissioner Williams.

"At this time," he continued, "I'm going to nominate a man well qualified to serve. . . one I believe shall be able to devote the necessary time to the job."

Then followed the nomination and second by Darnell. Before Hine voted he said:

"There is no need to rush into this appointment. Before I would vote for Mr. Hunsaker or anyone else I'd like to talk with him, and I haven't discussed the matter with Mr. Hunsaker. The vote I'm about to give doesn't mean I'm for or against him, but I'll have to cast my vote no."

Jordan in voting no said Hine spoke his sentiments.

Then followed the names of Gilley, Duncan and Horn.

Says Mayor Should Appoint

The mayor accepted the names of Duncan and Horn but stated that the law provides the mayor shall make the appointment with the approval of the council. Then he

Tornadoes Rip Louisiana Areas

By United Press

Tornadoes ripped sections of Louisiana today, injuring at least 25 persons and causing heavy property damage in the Opelousas area.

The twisters followed in the wake of torrential rains along the Louisiana-Texas coast. Houston, Tex., recorded more than 10 inches of rain during the past 48 hours, and more than 5 inches in the past 24.

Six persons from rural areas near Opelousas were admitted to a clinic for treatment of injuries suffered in the twister. Twenty other persons were hurt when a tornado hit near Leonville, north of Opelousas. They were treated for minor injuries and released.

About 10 homes were destroyed by the twister near Leonville.

Unconfirmed twisters were reported at Port Barre, La., and in the Baton Rouge, La., area.

Rainfall was general throughout the Gulf Coast Tuesday night and early today, with a number of communities reporting up to 2 inches of precipitation.

Gets $25,000

French-Born Woman Wins Baking Prize With Old World Recipe

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP)—An old world recipe with a new world variation Tuesday night won $25,000 for a French-born commercial artist in Pillsbury's Grand National Bake-Off.

The grand prize winner was Mrs. Gerda F. Roderer of Berkeley, Calif., who used a family recipe from Strasbourg, France, to create shortbread-flavored butter cookies called "Accordion Treats."

Mrs. Roderer, a resident of this country for four years, got the name from the accordion-pleated aluminum foil which she used as a baking vessel when she was unable to find the type of utensil used in Europe. The cookies were shaped like grapefruit slices.

Mrs. Beatrice A. Okangas, of Duluth, Minn., won the $5,000 second prize with "chunk o'cheese break," a molasses and cornmeal flavored dark loaf, stuffed with cheese before baking.

The top prize of $3,000 went to Mrs. Deborah W. Ludwig, Forrest Park, Ill., for "herb stickles," a salt bread flavored with caraway, dill, parsley and chives.

Elizabeth A. Wickersham 17, Fort Lauderdale, Fla., won $3,000 in the junior division for her recipe for "chocodiles," a bar-type cookie with brown sugar, peanuts, melted chocolate chips and corn soya crunch.

Winning senior contestant was Mrs. Esther J. Oakden, Belvidere, Ill. She won $3,000 for "honey chocolate pie," a combination of melted chocolate chips, uncooked filling of egg, honey and sour cream.

Brown Gives Report

No Action by Council on New Modern Uptown Lighting System

The Harrisburg city council Monday took no action on the proposition of installing a modern uptown lighting system.

The council had instructed R. R. Brown, engineer, to make a survey and give an estimated cost. Brown Monday made his report to the council.

Brown said that by having approximately fifty lights of the fluorescent or mercury vapor type, using steel poles and overhead wiring, the cost would be in the neighborhood of $25,000.

"With less lights than there are now, there would be much more lighting," Brown commented of the plan.

He said that if the city planned to go ahead with the lighting, it first must renegotiate the city's franchise with the Central Illinois Public Service Co. Commissioner C. R. Hine made a motion to negotiate but that was as far as it got.

Mayor Claud Gibbons at that point declared that "we all agree the lights would be an improvement but this is not a must."

"I am not against lights but there are a lot of necessities we need, like sidewalks," he continued.

ued. "Nobody has ever got lost uptown but a lot have got mired up in other parts of the city."

Regarding sidewalks, Street Commissioner Sneed Jordan said there were cases where the owner paid half and the city half to fix them up. He said he didn't believe the city ever would be able to pay for all the sidewalk work needed.

"We're trying not to let a lot of little things go by," he stated. "There are people on Shaw street wanting sewers," commented Commissioner Morris Darnell.

Tom Pierson, in the audience, said "the city council has more to do for the city than to buy lights. People in West Harrisburg need sewers."

At this point Lonnie Norris, one of the commissioners of the West Harrisburg Drainage district and a justice of the peace, said that the district cannot do anything to help with drainage because there are $2,049 in unpaid district taxes. "We've got $22 in the fund," Norris continued. "I don't know what to do."

He suggested he might resign as a commissioner and start getting out summonses for unpaid taxes.

Three Eldorado young men were held today in the Franklin county jail at Benton and Franklin county authorities said they had admitted entering a place at Zeigler.

The three are James Grant, John Robert Herron and Robert Gollihur.

Annual Boy Scout Finance Drive Under Way

Robert Rushing Is Chairman for Harrisburg Campaign

The annual campaign for funds to support the program of the Boy Scouts of America in this area started Tuesday, with Robert Rushing the general solicitor in Harrisburg.

The present finance campaign is a co-ordinated effort, with 39 states conducting their fund raising program at this time.

For the past several weeks friends of the Boy Scout program in southern Illinois have been completing plans for the campaign to be held in all communities of the Egyptian Council. The council chairman is Warren Engle, Carbondale, vice president of the Kroger company. Heading the special gifts committee is Jack Lewis, Anna. Chairman of the Sahara district, including Saline and Gallatin counties, is David Flota of Harrisburg.

Scouting has lagged in southern Illinois, with approximately one of every nine boys participating in some phase of Scouting, while over the nation generally, the ratio is one of every three, it is said.

A successful Boy Scout program depends on three factors—money, adult leadership, boys. There are plenty of boys desiring to become a Boy Scout in all counties of the Egyptian Council, but money and leadership is in short supply, with lack of funds the biggest reason for a lagging Boy Scout program, it is reported by those close to the situation.

Camping Program Available
The last finance drive held in Harrisburg, with the exception of a few special gifts from larger businesses, resulted in only about $2 being contributed for each boy in Scouting. This was the lowest percentage contribution of any town in southern Illinois.

The drive, conducted in the spring, was for the present 1957 calendar year. However, it is said, the Boy Scout program has now been placed on a fiscal basis, and the drive just beginning is for the 1958 fiscal year.

Physical facilities for Boy Scout work in southern Illinois are greatly improved over a few years back, with the Boy Scout Camp on Little Grassy Lake providing an opportunity for all Scouts to participate in a camping program.

Assisting Mr. Rushing with the finance drive in Harrisburg are eight "Majors," who will have several others working with them in covering all parts of the city.

The "Majors" are Dwan Fritch, Bert Gaskins, Jake Humphrey, Otis Hickey, C. J. Beggs, O. D. Rice, Bob Kames and Helen Stump. John Towle is Special Gifts chairman, Don Hughes is chairman of Prospects and Rating, Joe Jackson is publicity chairman and Eugene Neihaus is in charge of arrangements.

Greeted by Thousands

Queen Elizabeth, Prince Philip Begin Whirlwind Visit to U. S.

JAMESTOWN, Va. (AP)—Queen Elizabeth II for the first time as ruler of Britain set foot today on United States soil. Thousands were on hand to acclaim her.

She told her wellcomers, "I know that we are going to have a wonderful time."

The 31-year-old monarch stepped smiling from her Royal Canadian Air Force transport at nearby Patrick Henry Airport after a 500-mile flight from Ottawa.

After the welcoming ceremonies the radiant Queen, with her hand some consort, Prince Philip, was off on a whirlwind tour of the historic Virginia tidewater area where her nation's first permanent colony in the New World was born, grew, and later stirred toward revolt and independence.

On to Washington Thursday

Thursday Elizabeth and Philip go to Washington for four crowded days as the guests of President and Mrs. Eisenhower before leaving for New York on Monday.

The Queen's descent from the royal plane triggered both a ceremonial welcome, planned and rehearsed to the last note of the 50-piece Army Band, and the unstaged greetings of massed hundreds pressed against the airport security fence.

Thousands more waited expectantly at key points along the royal route.

After the big transport's door swung open, the Queen stepped into the bright October sunshine, moving gracefully down the ramp to a greeting by Virginia's Gov. Thomas B. Stanley and Wiley T. Buchanan Jr., U. S. chief of protocol, and their ladies.

The Queen said: "I and my husband have happy memories of our last visit to the United States six eventful years ago. We are very glad to be back again at the invitation of your president, and particularly happy to be here today."

Sec'y Implies U.S. Would Take The Offensive

Outbreak of War In Mid East Unlikely, News Conference Told

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles said today the United States must be on guard against a possible attack on Turkey by Syria and the Soviet Union.

But he said he does not think an outbreak of war in the Middle East is likely.

Dulles implied that the United States would take the offensive against Russia if it attacks Turkey. He ruled out any defensive reaction by the United States which would leave Russia what he called a "privileged sanctuary."

Dulles told his news conference that despite recent Soviet scientific achievements, the United States still has a very marked military superiority over the Soviet Union.

He conceded that Russia probably has some advantage in potential military activity of the future, but he said he is absolutely confident of this country's ability to move ahead and stay ahead in the scientific field.

In this connection, he said, Russia's satellite accomplishment is very useful. He said Sputnik completely voids complacency based on the idea that American superiority is automatic and alerts the nation and Congress to the necessity for pushing ahead in scientific fields that may be decisive five to 10 years from now.

As for Russia's violent propaganda campaign against Turkey, Dulles said he always feels a measure of concern when such charges are leveled so wildly and indiscriminately. He is fearful that this type of campaign may be a smokescreen to hide something more serious, he said.

The secretary said the present situation resembles the period at the outbreak of the Korean War in June of 1950.

"Do you fear there might be an attack by Syria and the Soviet Union on Turkey?" a reporter asked.

Dulles replied that one always must be on guard against that possibility.

General Rain Falls in Illinois

By United Press

A general rain has ended a three-week dry spell in Illinois.

The dry weather, which has been excellent for harvesting in the state, broke with rains of a quarter-inch or more in most areas.

Rantoul reported a heavy soaking of 1.85 inches in five hours early today for a 24-hour total of 1.95 inches.

Chicago caught a little more than a half-inch of rain—the first measurable rain since Sept. 22.

The Chicago area has been dry since Sept. 1. In the next 44 days, 1.08 inches of rain fell in the Chicago area. However, because of heavy spring and early summer rains Chicago is 9.64 inches over the average for the year so far.

For the 24 hours ending at 7 a. m. c.d.t., Belleville reported 1.40 inches of rain, Vandalia 1.02, Quincy .87, Peoria .68 and Rockford .40.

Knowland and The Presidency

Editorial — BY BRUCE BLOSSAT
No knowledgeable politician is likely to concede openly that he plans to use one public office as a stepping-stone to a higher one.

Thus the interesting thing about Senator Knowland's announcement of his governorship candidacy in California is not what he says on the subject but what is the probability as to the 1960 presidential race.

The evidence up to this point suggests that Knowland will be a candidate for the Republican nomination despite his avowed intention to serve four years as governor if he wins.

Knowland himself did not close the door on the presidential prospect. But even if he had tried to do so, that would not necessarily have ended it.

Unless his refusal is on a "won't run and won't serve" basis, a candidate's disavowal usually is regarded as only tentative, and sometimes as simply strategic. His potential backers go about their preparations without rest.

In rare cases they get no encouragement from the prospect at all, and there must be a genuine draft attempt. But usually matters reach a stage where the candidate "bows to the insistent demand" that he run in spite of previous statements that he would not.

Knowland, of course, must first win the GOP primary over incumbent Gov. Goodwin J. Knight and then whip the Democratic nominee before he can be a factor in 1960 at all.

If he does that, all the signs indicate that considerable GOP strength will cluster about him on the presidential battlefield. He has become a rallying point for many Republican conservatives who believe now that Vice President Nixon is a full-fledged "Eisenhower Republican."

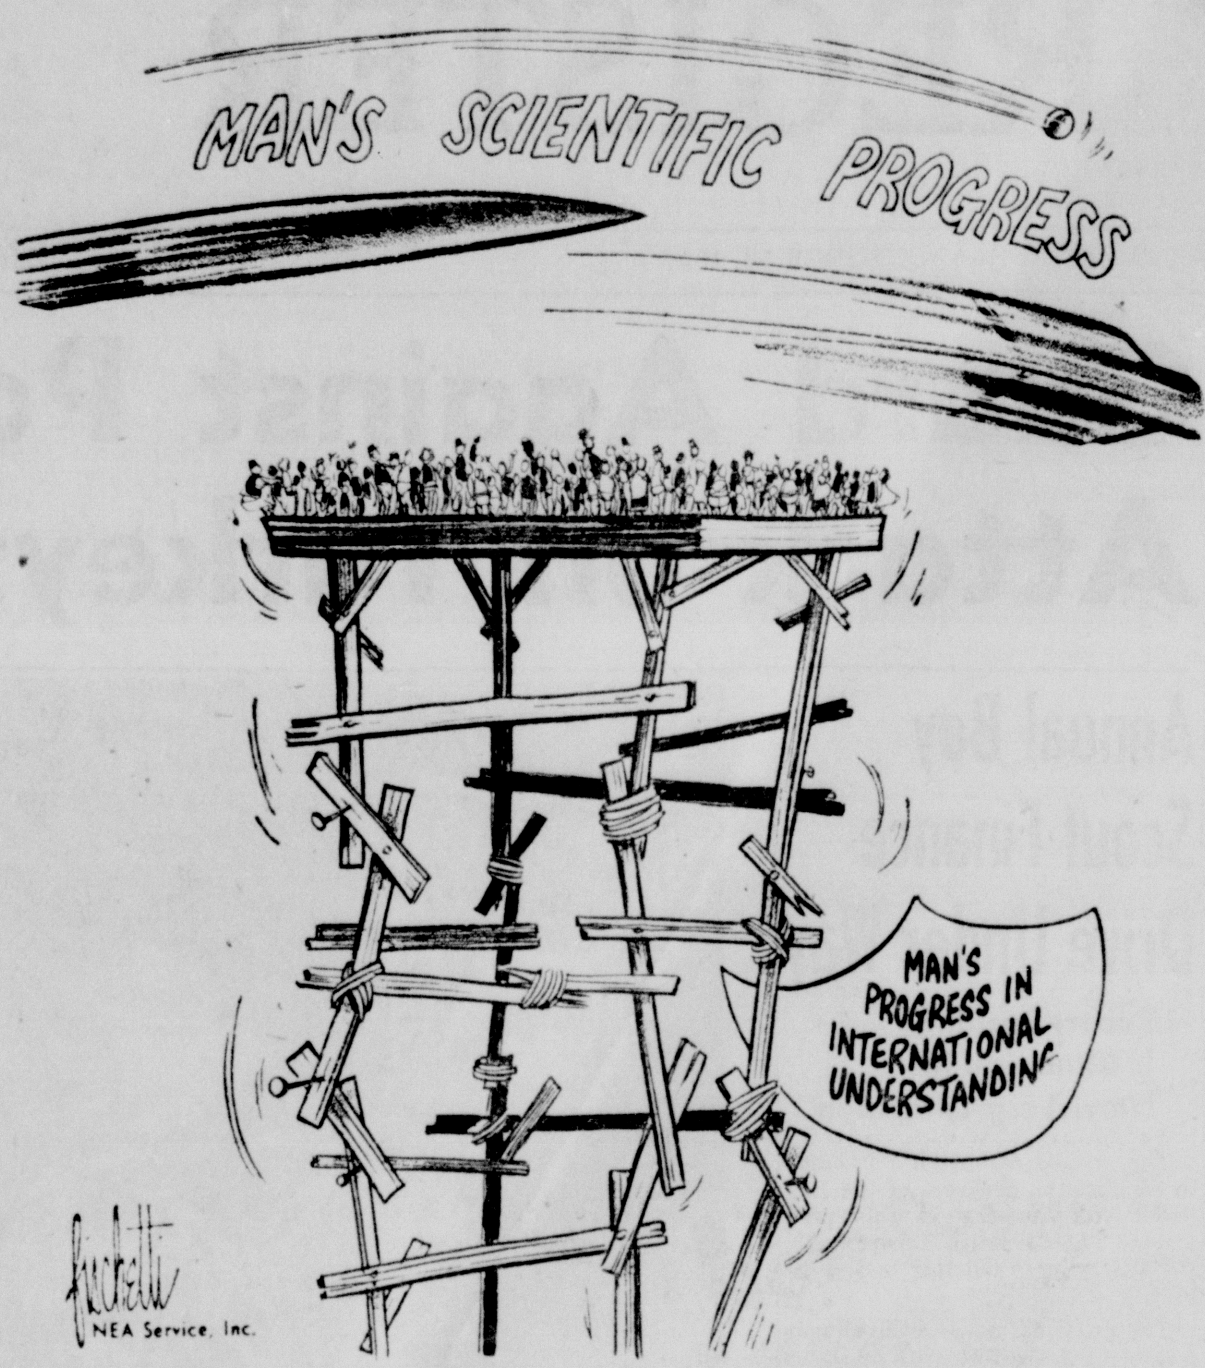

There is irony in this for Knowland, since he contends he has supported the Eisenhower administration in Congress 93 per cent of the time.

The odds at this moment do not favor Knowland winning out over Nixon, if such a race should shape up. Since he is relatively young, the senator might not worry too much if he fails to gain the nomination in 1960. There is still 1964 — provided Nixon as nominee should lose in 1960.

This much we know: Knowland is available. Nothing he said sounds as if he had any sort of "deal" with Nixon to sit on the sidelines three years hence. We can be fairly sure that if the senator clears his 1958 hurdle there will be at least two players on the field for the big show.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says:
Harry Truman Declines Invitation To Queen's Reception; Prime Minister MacMillan Offers To Fly To Washington On Sputnik; British Diplomats Smooth Out Kinks In Queen's Program.

WASHINGTON. — Harry Truman is one of the few to turn down an invitation to Queen Elizabeth's reception in Washington. Official reason: Previous engagement. Unofficially, Truman has confided to friends that he was so charmed by the Queen as a princess that he wants to remember her that way. . . . Truman's famous off-the-cuff, from-the-heart toast to Elizabeth in 1951 was: "When I was a little boy I read about the fairy princess and here she is." . . . The Queen's visit was originally planned to give a lift to sagging Anglo-American friendship and British prestige in the U. S. A. Now, thanks to to Sputnik and Russia's ICBM, it looks as if it's the American prestige that needs bolstering. . . . Prime Minister Harold MacMillan is so worried, not only about U. S. prestige, but allied prestige, that he has offered to fly to the United States immediately to confer with Eisenhower regarding Russian scientific progress. MacMillan had planned to confer with the next winter when the President is tentatively scheduled to return the Queen's call. But now he considers the Russian advances so serious that he has sent word he's ready to fly to Washington any time like says the word.

British Worries — British embassy experts who have been staying up nights trying to figure all the kinks that might occur during Her Majesty's visit, at first were worried over the Queen's greeting the ambassadors of Nationalist China and Egypt. England does not have relations with these two countries, so officially she could not receive them. Here is how they solved the impasse: Canada recognizes Egypt, and the Queen is Empress of Canada. Therefore she can officially receive the Egyptian ambassador. . . . Also Australia recognizes Nationalist China, and the Queen is Empress of Australia; so can greet the Chinese Nationalist ambassador, witty Hollington Tong. . . . It's likely that the Australian ambassador, Sir Percy Spender, will stand with Her Majesty when she greets the Chinese, and the Canadian ambassador when she greets the Egyptian. . . . The idea that the dominions are top-dogs in the British Empire is being so emphasized that Australian Ambassador Spender, who outranks British Ambassador Sir Harold Caccia, will be more prominent in the festivities than Caccia. To those who know the old British embassy in the days when its invitation was more coveted than one from the White House this is revolutionary.

ANOTHER HARRY TRUMAN?

It will be drowned out in the salutes and salaams to Queen Elizabeth, but a question reaching into the vitals of American government comes up for decision tomorrow. It's whether the independent government agencies, created by Congress and answerable to Congress, shall be required to show their files to Congress.

The man who will pose this question may become another Harry Truman—if he sticks to his guns and wins his battle. He is Congressman Morgan Moulder, a Missourian who, like Truman, is chairman of a committee appointed to investigate agencies which have become the most powerful in Washington.

These commissions, such as the Federal Power Commission, Communications Commission, Interstate Commerce, Civil Aeronautics, Securities and Exchange, have the power to award priceless TV licenses, fix rail rates, award airplane routes worth millions, and police the stock market. They are not responsible directly to the White House, yet they have claimed immunity from complete congressional scrutiny.

At the urging of Speaker Sam Rayburn, a committee headed by Moulder has now been set up to investigate them. However, the chairmen of the seven agencies got together at a private lunch at the University Club, where they decided to buck the probe by refusing to permit inspecting of their files.

Some Republicans, led by hard-working John Bennett of Michigan, have sided with Moulder in demanding a showdown. When the slowdown comes tomorrow, however, you can bet that Rep. Oren Harris, great friend of the big airlines, himself part-owner of a TV station, will side with the agencies.

ROYAL FUROR

A total of 960 newsmen have applied for credentials to cover Queen Elizabeth's Washington visit. This is twice as many as the 434 applications when she came here as a princess. . . . The crush to greet her is also worrying White House housekeepers. The state dinner table at the White House seats sixty. The Queen's party has fifteen. This leaves 45 seats for American guests, which traditionally must include representatives of Congress and the Supreme Court, since the United States is a government of three branches—the Executive, the Judiciary, and the Legislative. Result: some cabinet members won't be invited, and confidentially, they are really squawking. . . . Every minute of the Queen's program has been so carefully clocked that a stop watch was even used to do it. Her protocol handlers can't afford to have her late. They have allowed her five-minute periods to freshen up every two hours, except when she attends the North Carolina-Maryland game, when there'll be no freshening-up break from 1:15 p. m. when she leaves for the game, to 6:00 p. m. when she returns. . . . She'll sit on the North Carolina side, not because she favors the Tar Heels, but because the sun won't be in her eyes. . . . It was her husband who decided the Queen should attend the football game, somewhat against the wishes of stuffy British courtiers. . . . Philip also threw a slight monkey wrench into royal courtiers with his remark in Ottawa that he and the Queen wanted to visit California. The State Department had urged such a visit, but the court had said no.

Career Secretary Must Be Talented

CHICAGO — A sociologist says a career secretary must have all of the attributes of a good Girl Scout.
She must be courteous, thoughtful, loyal, dependable, tactful and responsible—all this, and human, too.
B. C. McCall, a social research consultant, said a successful boss-secretary relationship can require as much time and effort as a successful marriage.
McCall reached these conclusions after conducting a study for American Photocopy Equipment Co.
He interviewed 250 bosses and secretaries representing various parts of the country and various types of business.
A good secretary wears many hats, McCall said. She must be — —A "boss-freer." An accomplished organizer, she should free her boss from routine and administrative details.
—An administrative assistant. She should have the initiative and ability to make decisions in her boss' absence, within limits.
—A confidante and adviser. She should combine the traditional feminine quality of a responsive ear with the rather less traditional one of discretion.

—An informed member of the company. She must be well-versed in the technical jargon of the business.

Thinking It Over
By Robert L. Dieffenbacher, D.D. (Written for NEA Service)
The prizes offered for quiz programs, contests, trading stamps and coupons intrigue thousands of Americans. Some of the rewards are so fantastic that many people are tempted to join in the rush to get "something for nothing." Actually, most of these awards are made for hard work. The participants invest a great deal of time, effort and thinking in the programs.
The attitude of many people in wanting "something for nothing" is basically unsound. All of us ought to strive to earn or to deserve what we receive.
There is a prize in Heaven which awaits all who strive to win it. It is not "something for nothing," yet it is greater than we really deserve. This heavenly contest is based on the elimination of sin through repentance and turning to God. It does not require an outward show before men, but an inward turning of the whole self toward God.

Teaching Retarded Children To Talk Is Slow Process

NEW YORK (U.P.)—Silence isn't always golden.
In a small room of a New York hospital clinic, a little boy looks at a picture mounted on a piece of cardboard. A pretty girl asks him what that picture shows, and he opens his lips and tries to speak the word "apple."
Yesterday, young Tommy said the word "kitten," and it was a triumph. But today, the sound that comes from his lips is garbled and unrecognizable, little more than a grunt.
The grey-eyed girl takes his hand gently and blows on it so he can feel her breath as she says the word. Then she puts Tommy's hand in front of his mouth, and Tommy tries again.
This time . . . falteringly . . . the word comes out. Tommy has said
"apple," and he laughs out loud, and says the word "apple" again.
Each Case Dramatic
This laborious procedure is part of months, sometimes years of training that many boys and girls go through when they do not learn to speak as other children do.
Across the corridor, dark-haired Doris Trepel Leberfeld, head of the first speech clinic for mentally retarded children in New York, looks through a file of case histories and says, "Every speech case is a dramatic case."
The clinic opened in September,
1950, at the Flower Fifth Avenue Hospital. It was the first of its kind in New York, and has grown

HOW TO BUY A MATTRESS
IN 8
LESSONS

3. HOW FIRM SHOULD IT BE?

That's a matter of opinion. Some like a normal-firm mattress
... some need extra firmness. But only Beautyrest gives you your choice! Normal-Firm or Extra-Firm Beautyrest, with identical quality built in both. Either way, you have the comfort YOU prefer.
6. IS IT GUARANTEED?

The ten-year guarantee of Beautyrest says: "If any structural defect occurs within ten years, your Beautyrest will be repaired free of charge." Many people enjoy their Beautyrest mattresses for 15 to 20 years AND MORE!

1. ARE THE SPRINGS TIED TOGETHER?

That's the FAULT of ordinary mattresses. Note (left) that pressing down on one spring makes the springs sag all around it. In a BEAUTYREST, (right) each of the 837 springs is independent. There's no sag in a Beautyrest—ever!
4. WILL THE EDGES HOLD UP?

That's pretty important in a mattress. Edges take a beating.
You sit there. Youngsters jounce there. But only Beautyrest has the cover at the edge linked to the coils. Edges stay strong and firm in a Beautyrest.

7. WHAT'S IT COST (in the long run)?

Beautyrest costs less than ordinary mattresses because it lasts two, three and four times longer. At $79.50 it gives you unparalleled sleeping comfort for only 2¢ a night! You get a bigger dollar's worth for every dollar you spend.

2. WHAT IS A COMFORTABLE MATTRESS?

Because there's no sag in a Beautyrest—YOU can't sag . . .
your spine stays straight. Top picture shows how you rest on a Beautyrest. In the bottom picture, you see how sagging springs gives poor posture and poor rest. Note the curved spine line.
5. HOW LONG WILL IT LAST?

The United States Testing Co. used this Torture Tester on all kinds of mattresses. Beautyrest lasted over twice as long as any other mattress: SIX times longer than some mattresses!
Still another proof of Beautyrest built-in quality.

8. WHERE DO YOU BUY IT?
Lloyd L. Parker
FURNITURE STORE
No Interest Open Thursday 'Til 8 p. m.
HARRISBURG
Two good names are back of the Beautyrest mattress. Simmons . . . and our own. And we won't handle any product that we can't guarantee unreservedly. So . . . you're doubly safe in buying a Beautyrest. It's doubly guaranteed.

Flunked Student Admits Kidnaping, Criminally Assaulting Two Teachers

DOWAGIAC, Mich. (AP)—A teen-ager kidnaped two young school teachers, one of whom had flunked him in English, and forced them to drive to a wooded area Tuesday night where he raped and beat them.

The youth, Robert Leroy Ball, 18, was arrested at his home about 3 a. m. today and readily admitted abducting and criminally assaulting Judith Snyder, 24, and Rita Murray, 22, teachers at the Dowagiac High School.

Sheriff Kenneth McLeod said the women were kidnaped when they left the school after teaching adult education classes.

He said Ball told him he hid in Miss Snyder's car in the school parking lot with rope, wire and a knife.

Ball forced Miss Snyder, who had flunked him in English, to drive to a wooded area four miles southwest of Dowagiac and ordered the teachers to disrobe.

He bound both of them and then raped them.

McLeod said Ball then pulled the naked teachers out of the car, propped them up against the auto and beat them with his fists.

The youth shoved the teachers into the trunk of the car and drove around the area for a short time.

Ball found an abandoned barn several miles from the scene of the attack and left the naked and bound Miss Snyder in a horse stall. He then drove to a partially constructed cement block house, built a crude shelter which he covered with an old auto hood and left the naked Miss Murray in the shelter.

Miss Snyder managed to work free from her bonds and ran to a farm house to report the attack.

Report Personal Income Drops

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Commerce Department says personal income of Americans dipped slightly last month in the first such decline since last December.

The Federal Reserve Board reports industrial activity also decreased slightly in September.

The two reports Tuesday were certain to be cited by economic experts who are concerned about the recent stock market break and the lack of zest in the fall business "pick-up." But government economists were unworried. They said the small monthly drops in income and business activities were just temporary interruptions in the expansion of the economy.

Despite the September drop, the Commerce Department's report said personal income in the July-September quarter was running at an annual rate of $346,500,000,000, the highest quarter on record. The report said September income was in line with the quarterly rate, although 300 million dollars below the August rate.

Fail to Name New Commissioner

read a Harrisburg ordinance which said in part:

The mayor shall have the power to execute ordinances. He is the superintendent of the Department of Public Affairs and as such shall have general supervision over all departments. He shall sign all contracts, resolutions and ordinances approved if he deems it best to do so. He shall grant all special permits and shall serve in the capacity of commissioner if one is disabled or disqualified. He shall have charge of the purchase of materials and supplies of the Department of Public Affairs. All duties not assigned otherwise shall be his.

"I have hesitated to read this but I read it for the benefit of everybody concerned," he stated. "If that is true the way you interpret the ordinance," asked Hine, "why elect commissioners when the mayor has jurisdiction over all the departments?"

Items Approved
"It's the responsibility of the mayor to see that the work of the departments is carried out in accordance with the ordinances," he replied.

A number of items of business Tuesday brought forth unanimous votes.

A resolution was passed authorizing the state to proceed with plans to make repairs to a portion of Route 34 on North Main street and to make certain storm sewer adjustments. Reports of justices of the peace handling city cases were read and accepted. The bills were paid and the water board minutes for last month were approved.

Flu Kills 150

In West Germany

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—The Asian flu epidemic sweeping Europe has caused at least 150 deaths and hospitalized thousands of Germans in West Germany, health officials reported today. The U. S. There have been no deaths among American forces personnel in Europe as a result of the illness.

Children Chief Victims of Flu Outbreaks

Five Die, Four Critically Ill at Pennsylvania School

By United Press

Flu outbreaks killed at least 12 persons, five of them Pennsylvania school children, in a continuing rampage among the nation's young.

The disease appeared to be gathering strength from one end of the nation to the other, with children the chief victims of the Asian flu and other respiratory ailments.

At least seven deaths blamed on the flu were reported in Pennsylvania in the past 48 hours. One flu-connected death each occurred in Wisconsin, Utah, Ohio, Michigan and Indiana.

Five children died and four others were critically ill in a tragic influenza epidemic at the Pennsylvania State Training School for the Mentally Retarded near Philadelphia.

The disease hit 838 of the school's 3,149 children and 56 of its 400 employees. Tests were begun to determine whether the flu was of the Asian variety.

Four of the dead children, who ranged in age from six to 16 years, were recent admissions. Dr. Leopold Potkorski, school superintendent, said none of the victims had been "in too good physical shape." None of the children in the institution had received Asian flu inoculations.

Another flu outbreak caught up with a speeding North Western Road train, forcing it to make an emergency stop at Elroy, Wis. Tuesday so doctors could treat 14 stricken children.

The youths, members of a St. Margaret's High School, Chicago, class returning from a student tour to the Black Hills, S. D., came down with nausea and high fever. The train was delayed 37 minutes while the students were treated.

Other flu outbreaks forced the shutdown of dozens of schools throughout the country and at least four colleges—Washington and Jefferson College, Washington, Pa.; Lehigh and Lycoming colleges in Pennsylvania, and Beloit College, Beloit, Wis.

Touhy's Sons Plead for His Prison Release

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—Roger Touhy's two sons pleaded for his release from prison today and said the Prohibition Era gangster "holds no grudges against anybody" for the 24 years he has spent in prison.

The two sons, Tom, 31, and Roger Jr., 32, appeared with their mother and Touhy's sister before the State Pardon and Parole Board which is considering a Touhy appeal for executive clemency.

Touhy's sister, Mrs. Ethel Alesia, acted as principal spokesman for the family. She said she believed Touhy has been "proved innocent ... and he shouldn't be in prison another day."

Mrs. Alesia referred to a federal court decision later overruled, which found Touhy was originally convicted on perjured evidence.

Touhy's son Tom told the board, "My mother has been deprived of a husband for 24 years, and my brother and I have been deprived of a father. We would like to see the family reunited."

Tom, married and the father of one child, is a pipe fitter. His brother is single and works as a truckpointer. Both sons said they "make good money" and would help support their father if he is released from prison.

In reply to a question from the board, both sons said they served in World War II and received honorable discharges. Mrs. Alesia also said the elder Touhy had served in the Navy in World War I, and had been honorably discharged.

The board meeting took only about 15 minutes. Touhy's wife, Mary, did not testify, although she was present. Mrs. Alesia and the two boys thanked the board for the 196-year sentence reduction granted Touhy earlier this year. Mrs. Alesia said Touhy, if released, hoped to start a small fishing tackle business and would move away from Chicago, probably to another state.

Deputy Sheriff Everett N. Snead has returned from the 56th annual convention of the Illinois Police Association, held Sunday and Monday in the Conrad Hilton hotel, Chicago.

Elected president was Daniel Conway of Chicago.

Next year's meeting will be at Moline.

AF Fails to Launch Rockets

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Air Force admitted today that it has failed in four attempts to launch rockets which it hoped would reach a record altitude of 1,000 to 4,000 miles above the Pacific.

The Air Force said the failures were due "primarily" to unfavorable weather, and that there had been no malfunctions in the rockets themselves.

The project, known as "Far-side," is being conducted on Eniwetok atoll in the Pacific. The plan called for a rocket to be lifted to a height of 100,000 feet on a platform carried by a huge balloon. Then, under the plans, the rocket was to be fired to an altitude of more than 1,000 miles.

The Air Force said that in four launching attempts made since late last month, extremely low temperatures found at high altitudes "have had adverse effects on the balloon, with the result that the rockets have not been properly positioned to achieve the desired results."

Marie Wilson, Unwed Mother Fight for Infant

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Actress Marie Wilson promised tearfully today to fight with all her might to keep a three-month-old baby girl she and her husband adopted from an unwed mother three days after birth.

The actress and her husband, TV producer Bob Fallon, were served with a writ Tuesday ordering them to appear in Superior Court Monday to show cause why they should not give up custody of the infant to the baby's attractive, 21-year-old mother.

Miss Wilson explained that she and Fallon had paid for the young woman's medical expenses and gave her $75 a month in expense money during her pregnancy.

The actress said the child's mother, identified by the county adoption bureau as Linda Leabow, had signed an agreement consenting to the adoption.

Clothes Costs Rising

NEW YORK (AP)—Milady's new suit and coat will cost about 7 per cent more next year. That's the forecast from garment manufacturers in the wake of pay increases awarded Tuesday to 50,000 New York City garment workers.

of soft folds draped to the left hip. The Queen stepped to a raised reviewing platform to receive military honors tendered by a combined Army, Navy, Air Force, and Marine honor guard.

U. of Arkansas Students Withdraw Prom Invitation to Louis Armstrong

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP)—The student senate of the University of Arkansas Tuesday night withdrew a prom date invitation to jazz artist Louis Armstrong because of his "unfortunate" remarks about the engagement.

Jack Davis, president of the Associated Students of the University, said the student senate had "regretfully advised Armstrong of its decision to withdraw its negotiations with him." Armstrong was scheduled to play at a prom next March.

Armstrong, a vehement critic of Gov. Orval Faubus, said recently the engagement at the university was a "great moral victory."

He said he would be glad to play at Arkansas but would be sorry if Faubus were to hear any of the "beautiful notes coming out of my horn."

Davis said "Louis Armstrong's statements which misinterpreted the significance of an invitation to play a return engagement at the university and the unfortunate remarks which he has made in this matter have brought about a situation which could well be detrimental to the progress which our university has experienced during the past 10 years."

The university, integrated since 1947, has 10 Negro students. Its enrollment has increased considerably during this 10-year period.

North Carolina Youth Named FFA Star Farmer

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—The nation's most coveted farm youth award went to Clarence J. Chappell Jr., 21, Belvidere, N. C., Tuesday night.

He was named "Star Farmer of America" by the Future Farmers of America at their 30th convention. The award, carrying with it a $1,000 check from the FFA, was made during ceremonies at a session at municipal auditorium.

Young Chappell shared honors with three other members of the farm youth organization who were named regional star farmers and received checks of $500 each. They were Charles F. Cole, 20, New Hartford, N. Y.; Bryan Hafen, 19, Esquite, Nev.; and Billie D. Parsons, 21, Milesville, S. D.

Ironing Board May Be On Way Out with New Fabrics in Men's, Women's Fashions

By GAY PAULEY
United Press Women's Editor
NEW YORK (AP)—The ironing board, once the mainstay of wash-day, may be on its last legs.

From a variety of textile authorities comes word that wash and wear is a reality for many cottons and synthetic fabrics. This means no ironing—not even that touch-up we've been used to giving the wash and wears in the last few years.

Here is what the textile people promise:

The DuPont Co., which makes orlon, dacron, nylon and other synthetics, demonstrated automatic wash and wear for a whole group of women's fashions, scheduled to appear in retail stores early next year.

The Agriculture Department said its researchers have developed "truly wash and wear" cottons.

A century-old shirt manufacturing firm said ironing of shirts will be a "lost art" in 10 years.

A spokesman for Dan River Mills said wash and wear will be a "permanent thing" in five years.

New Fabric Combinations

The DuPont Co. Wednesday ushered in a "whole new era" in women's fashions, with tailored suits, dresses and sportswear coming from home washer and tumble dryer "as if freshly pressed." The company said the no-ironing is possible through the built-in qualities of the fabrics, plus new methods of garment construction—trims and such designed to take the beating a machine gives them.

Fabric combinations included orlon-cotton, dacron-cotton, dacron-rayon, and dacron-nylon.

DuPont said it expected the success of wash-wear in women's clothes to match what already has happened in men's wear. It reported that by spring and summer, 1958, there will be 37 men's wear manufacturers offering no-iron apparel... that more than two million men's garments will be produced in the wash-wear category. At present, six firms are working with DuPont in the women's field.

In Washington, the Department of Agriculture said it had produced no-iron cottons which don't develop seam pucker even after repeated launderings.

USDA's southern regional research laboratory told of dresses which held the box pleats after washing... of one shirt which was still presentable after 51 launderings.

Percentages Rising

Sylvan Geismar, president of the Manhattan Shirt Co., said the wash and wear cottons will make ironings of shirts obsolete in 10 years. He told the National Association of Retail Clothiers and furnishers that by spring, 30 to 50 per cent of his company's line will be in the no-iron category.

"About 80 per cent of our dress goods and shirtings are wash-wear," said Harry Ferguson, vice president in charge of merchandising and sales at Dan River Mills, one of the big all-cotton firms. "In a year's time, it will be 100 per cent. Wash and wear will be a permanent thing in five years."

The no-iron finish on cottons is applied by chemical process, in which the fiber is impregnated with a resin. The method got going right after World War II and now the finishes will "last the life of the garment, if applied properly," said Ernest Stewart of the National Cotton Council.

Stewart said the housewife can starch the n-irons "but if she does, she will have to press them."

In synthetics, the non-wrinkle qualities are part of the fiber construction—sort of a "baked in" no-iron.

TOP MAN ON THE TOTAL POLE

A total of almost $10,000,000,000 was spent for advertising last year. Nearly a third was spent in daily newspapers . . . $3,235,600,000. That's more money in newspapers than ever before . . . more than in TV, radio, magazines and outdoor combined.

Every year, newspapers are on top of the total pole. The reason is simple. For results, newspapers can't be topped.

Use the daily newspaper as your basic advertising medium. Most advertisers do. In 1956:

Newspapers . . .	$3,235,600,000
Television . . . . .	$1,209,900,000
Magazines . . . . .	$794,700,000
Radio . . . . .	$570,700,000
Outdoor . . . . .	$199,600,000

THE CANVAS DAGGER

by HELEN REILLY

THE STORY: Sarah Casement demands an explanation from Tom Gillespie, with whom Sarah is in love, for attentions shown a woman known as Lisa. Tom says that Lisa is his uncle's wife. That same day a man's body was pulled out of a pond.

Tom's uncle was Channing Hall. "You know who he is?"

Sarah knew vaguely that Channing Hall was a prominent figure in public life, that he had served under two presidents as an adviser on world affairs and that for dignitaries always saw him when they came to the United States. She nodded, and Tom went on, all trace of amusement fading. His uncle had not only been a father to him—his own father had died when he was a boy—he had been a friend and companion as well. A month or so earlier Channing Hall had had a stroke brought on by overwork. It was important that no one should know about it. Certain forces and certain individuals, pigs at the trough who were fighting governmental reforms he was working on, would cry broken health and redouble their efforts to knock him out, and some of his weak-kneed supporters would lose heart and change sides.

Channing was recovering, no one knew he had had a stroke, and no body was going to find out. "If Lisa had her way she'd have me doing 24-hour sentry go at the apartment, when there's absolutely no necessity for it."

Tom had let go of Sarah by that time and was tramping the floor. She was remorseful, contrite. She had been a fool, a jealous, narrow-minded vixen. . . . She said humbly, "I'm sorry, Tom."

He came back to her at that, tilted up her chin and gave it a shake.

"You ought to be sorry. Don't do it again. And no matter what happens keep what I've told you under your hat. Now I'll reward you." He kissed her and she broke away laughing. Tom said he was starving and they drove over to Beach Point to get some cold cuts.

It was darker than ever out, and chilly, but the air felt good. An undertaker's long black wagon was drawn up in front of Mr. Sproul's, beyond the church. Sproul was an irascible, downright tough old man who looked as though he'd live forever. He laid his extraordinary health and vigor to his gardens, which were his pride and joy, in summer you could hear him all over the landscape shouting at the children for trespassing on his grass. Sarah wondered if any thing had happened to Mr. Sproul, or to his elderly housekeeper.

When they got back to the stone house laden with food they found Bob Brown in the kitchen. He had come to return a lamp he had borrowed—people made free with each other's things in Cornwall. At the end of a half a dozen disjointed and irrelevant remarks Bob Brown asked if Florrie had been there and they said no and he refused a drink and went.

At 11 Tom said, "You're all in. Come on, I'm going to take you over to the Tasks," but she had no intention of imposing on Steven and Carlotta at that hour, and she had lost most of her fear of the stone house.

Tom said, "All right, if you're going to stay here I'm going to stay with you—to the devil with the neighbors."

She couldn't dissuade him. She was rather glad; the house was big, and there was a lot of darkness outside. She went into her room, falling happily to sleep to small lulling noises, the whisper of wind in the chimney, the crackle of the living-room fire—Tom was there, there was a line of light under the door.

When she woke sometime later on there was no line of light under the door. The wind was a gale and another door or a shutter somewhere was banging noisily. She waited for Tom to get up and close it. He didn't. Sarah got out of bed, put on a robe and slippers, went into the living room and switched on the lamp beside the hearth. Tom wasn't there. She called and he didn't answer. She went into the dark kitchen. It was the kitchen door that was banging. She crossed to it, and saw the light in the sky, up and to the right over the pines and the rim of the hill. Something there was on fire.

Sarah looked at her watch. It was just half-past 12. She threw on some clothes. That was where Tom must have gone, to the fire. She went out and up the path.

From the top of the steep rise, she could see clearly. A summer cottage, a shack really, on the slope of the hill behind the church was on fire. The flames were brilliant and frightening. Half the town was there, standing back at a safe distance. One woman was hysterical. "Burned in our beds, that's what we'll be—burned in our beds unless they find that monster!"

After a few minutes she found Tom; he was with Carlotta under a big oak. A little way off Steven was talking to men from the village, a topcoat over his pajamas.

The firebug had been at work again. Sarah had forgotten about the arsonist. Luckily the house was untenanted. It was only occupied until Labor Day.

Involuntarily and for no good reason, Sarah thought of Diana Satterlee standing in her living room that afternoon and flicking her lighter on and off and staring at it—and of Florrie Brown's furious, "Will you stop that?"

The shack up on the hill behind the church had not been empty when the fire broke out. There had been a man asleep in it. The man had burned to death.

Fay to Head March of Dimes

JOLIET, Ill.—For the fifteenth straight year, William E. Fay, noted Joliet industrialist, has been appointed Illinois State March of Dimes chairman. He was named to the top state volunteer post by Basil O'Connor, president of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. In his position Mr. Fay will lead county campaign directors and other volunteers in the 1958 March of Dimes next January.

Commenting on the results of last year's March of Dimes, Mr. Fay noted that Illinois raised $2,599,481.41 for the 1957 battle against polio and the huge task of restoring its disabled victims to productive living. An important part of the funds has been earmarked for polio rehabilitation. He added that the 1958 March of Dimes, starting January 2, will also emphasize the help urgently needed for the many thousands still afflicted by the crippling after-effects of polio.

"The success of the Salk vaccine, reflected in a dramatic reduction of new polio cases, is very evident," Mr. Fay said. "And yet, despite this powerful weapon, we still have county chapters in our state which are hard pressed financially to assist patients dependent on them for the care they need."

He explained that 16 counties in the state had this year received a total of $76,650.00 in additional aid from the National Foundation's headquarters.

Mr. Fay said he wished to thank the people of the state on behalf of the National Foundation and local chapters for their generous assistance given last January. He added he felt sure they would continue to support the objectives of the 1958 campaign.

Rep. Kerr announced that the next meeting in November will be held at Danville and that a meeting will be held in southern Illinois shortly after the first of the year.

He also states that the commission will make an extensive study to improve the market for stock in Illinois.

A JOB WELL DONE — Chief Torpedoman Clarence Leroy Pyle (left), whose mother, Mrs. O. J. Pyle, lives in Harco, is congratulated for "a job well done" on the day of his retirement from the Navy by his commanding officer, Lt. Comdr. Frank T. Rawlings Jr. of the USS Grenadier. Pyle retired to the fleet reserve this month after 20 years of active Naval service which saw him decorated for "extraordinary heroism" during World War II, when he served on the submarines Drum and Atule. He and his wife, Elizabeth, and their daughter, Mary Lee, 13, will move to Coffeyville, Kans., where Pyle has a position as a motor company.

Braves Award McMahon Full Series Share of $8,924; Hazle 3-Fourths

NEW YORK (AP)—Don McMahon had a full share of World Series gold today to compensate for the fact that he didn't get half his share of praise in the Milwaukee Braves' march to the National League pennant.

The Brooklyn-born fireballer had only a 2-3 record after joining the Braves on June 28 but was voted a full $8,924.36 share compared to the 3-4 share ($6,693.27) awarded Bob (Hurricane) Hazle, Milwaukee's late-season slugging sensation. Hazle joined the club July 28, hit .526 for almost a month and finished with a .403 mark for 41 games.

That was the only real surprise in the distribution of the Series melon, revealed Tuesday by Commissioner Ford Frick, but even Hazle wasn't inclined to make an issue of it.

McMahon's Record Deceptive

"I would like to have gotten a full share," said Hazle at his Columbia, S. C. home. "But it isn't for me to say what I should have. What the players voted is okay with me."

McMahon, a red-faced 215-pound right-hander, had one of the most deceptive records in baseball this year. Braves' manager Fred Haney repeatedly called him "my club reliever" and pointed to a 1.53 earned run average as the true measure of his ability. McMahon pitched 47 innings of relief without once throwing a home run ball—another indication of his ability.

The Braves voted 30 full shares, including one to regular center fielder Bill Bruton, who was on the disabled list after July 11. They gave Nippy Jones, purchased late in the season from the PCL, a 3-4 share; awarded $60,000-bonus boy John Demerit, who played in 33 games, a 1-3 share of $2,974.78 and handed $118,000-bonus kid Bob Taylor, who appeared in only 7 games, a flat $1,000.

The American League champion New York Yankees exhibited their traditional generosity when they voted 33 full shares, including one to coach Bill Dickey, who was sick all year, and another to Pete Sheehy, who put in his 30th year as the team's clubhouse boy. They also voted a full share to Traveling Secretary Bill McCorry.

Third Highest Shares

The Braves' full-share value was exceeded only by the $11,147.90 which went to each New York Giant in 1954 and the $9,768.21 which went to each Brooklyn Dodger in 1955. The Yankees' full losing share of $5,606.06 was comparatively small.

Charley Segar, Baseball's secretary, revealed that Sal Maglie had been voted shares by both the Dodgers, with whom he started the campaign, and the Yankees, with whom he finished it. Frick ruled that Maglie should have the Yankee share—a 1-2 share of $2,803.08 compared to the Dodgers' full third-place share of $1,057.18.

The second-place St. Louis Cardinals voted 30 full shares with $1,636.22 each and the runnerup Chicago White Sox awarded 32 full shares worth $1,321.39 each.

Notre Dame's Brennan Named Coach of Week

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—He's a true-green Irishman married to a Kelley, yet he refused to inaugurate his first spring practice on the traditional St. Patrick's day because it was too cold.

He's a lawyer who doesn't practice but makes sure his players do.

He was a football player at nine, a college starter at 17, a schoolboy coach at 20 and got the most glamorous college coaching job at 25.

He's Terence Patrick (Terry) Brennan, the United Press Coach of the Week after the dramatic 23-21 victory of his flu-bitten Notre Dame team over old rival Army.

"I thought we'd really be in trouble after all those boys got the flu," Brennan said today. "Why, the student body had so many sick that we had beds in the hallways of the infirmary and had to have a temperature of 102 to get in. But the boys just wouldn't quit, that's all."

The last time Army and Notre Dame met—in 1947—19-year-old halfback Terry Brennan zipped 97 yards for a touchdown with the opening kickoff to touch off an Irish victory.

This time, Brennan faced a lot more pressure. Ever since he succeeded Frank Leahy four years ago, critics and opposing teams alike have waited to pounce on him. They had a field day when the 1956 Irish, green in experience as well as uniform, won only two games.

The Notre Dame administration supported Terry to the limit and the victory over Army made the Monday morning quarterbacks as silent as Calvin Coolidge.

"I thought we'd really be in trouble after all those boys got the flu," Brennan said today. "Why, the student body had so many sick that we had beds in the hallways of the infirmary and had to have a temperature of 102 to get in. But the boys just wouldn't quit, that's all."

The last time Army and Notre Dame met—in 1947—19-year-old halfback Terry Brennan zipped 97 yards for a touchdown with the opening kickoff to touch off an Irish victory.

This time, Brennan faced a lot more pressure. Ever since he succeeded Frank Leahy four years ago, critics and opposing teams alike have waited to pounce on him. They had a field day when the 1956 Irish, green in experience as well as uniform, won only two games.

The Notre Dame administration supported Terry to the limit and the victory over Army made the Monday morning quarterbacks as silent as Calvin Coolidge.

Eagles Collide Friday Night with West Frankfort

Expected Biggest Hurdle on Path To Unbeaten Season

Eldorado, unbeaten in five starts, collides with highly-regarded West Frankfort Friday night in a game that many look on as the biggest hurdle in Eldorado's path to an undefeated season. The game will be played at West Frankfort.

The South. Seven conference representative has a good record for the season. In five games West Frankfort has won three, tied one and lost once.

West Frankfort opened the season with an impressive 27-0 decision at the expense of Carbondale and followed with a 33-18 win over Johnston City. Then came the lone loss—36-7—by the Mt. Vernon Rams. WF got back into the win column with a 35-0 rout of Marion and last week played powerful Murphysboro to a 0-0 tie.

Among Eldorado's five victims are two teams on the WF sched ule.

Comparing scores proves practically nothing, but is the only pre-game yardstick.

Yardsticks Differ

Using Marion for comparative purposes West Frankfort has the edge over Eldorado. WF beat Marion 35-0 and Eldorado's margin was 34-6. WF measures a TD and extra point the stronger.

Using Johnston City as the yard stick it is all Eldorado. The Eagles stomped JC 66-0 and WF won 33-18. That gives Eldorado several TDs to play on.

In addition to trying to keep unbeaten for the season, Eldorado also has a winning streak going against West Frankfort it would like to extend.

The two schools resumed football relationships in 1954 and the Eagles won a thriller before a homecoming crowd 20-14. With the final period half gone WF was leading 14-6, then the Eagles struck hard for two TDs and the victory.

Eagles Area's Top Scorers

In 1955 Eldorado roared out in the second half to break a 7-7 tie and win 20-7. The game was featured by the sensational running of Ron Stroke, an end shoved into halfback duty when regular back Acie Gwaltney was injured.

Last year was a humdinger with Eldorado winning 13-12.

WF grabbed an early lead on a 42-yard scoring play by Bennett and also scored last on a quarterback sneak by Bruce Link. But in between the Feaguy brothers—Marty and Lester—scored a TD each and an extra point for the decision.

Eldorado, featuring split-second precision offensive play and a strong, rugged defense, is the area's top scoring machine with 275 points and the defense has been pierced for only 12 in five games this season.

Indiana, West Virginia Receive Year Probations By NCAA for Aid Violations

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—Indiana and West Virginia, the latest schools to run afoul of new "get-tough" National Collegiate Athletic Assn. policies, today made clear they consider their one-year probations a major slap.

Indiana Athletic Director Frank E. Allen reacted to the NCAA penalty by comparing his team to a stricken fighter, "floored twice," but "still with a chance to win." Allen said other schools have come back "to win" and "this Indiana will do."

The Hoosiers' first blow was the suspension of its new football coach, Phil Dickens, last July. The former Tennessee grid star transferred from Wyoming in January. Dickens' suspension followed the revelation of illegal offers of vacation transportation money and "incidental expense" allowances of $50 a month to about a dozen prospective athletes. The suspension, effected by the university, was the result of Big Ten pressure.

Findings Called "Unjust"

At Morgantown, W. Va., university President Irvin Stewart said he felt the probation, imposed following findings of the NCAA's in fractions committee, was "unjust."

Stewart said the violation, involving a fabled Kentucky prep basketball player, did not comprise an infraction in his opinion since "a person not connected with the university did certain things without the knowledge of the university. He said further that West Virginia declined to accept the prospective athlete, identified as Kelly Coleman. The youth would now have been a second-year student.

Coleman who shattered virtually all Kentucky high school scoring records, was not accepted because of low scholastic marks.

The NCAA, in announcing the probations at the conclusion of a two-day executive council meeting here, said Indiana's violation was considered "far greater."

The body, however, charged that a West Virginia "friend and booster" offered and gave aid to the athlete "with the knowledge" of a university representative in contradiction to Stewart's comment.

Allegedly Got Gifts

The NCAA said the aid was in the form of the use of an automo-

SIU Sets Distance Record with Extension Course in Formosa

CARBONDALE, Ill. — Southern Illinois University has set a distance record with a new extension course inaugurated this fall.

The course, "Individual Problems in Journalism," is being conducted at Taipei, Formosa, 8,000 miles away.

Nationalist Chinese newsmen, some of them graduates of American universities, are the students. Those who successfully complete the 16-session course will receive four quarter hours of college credit.

The instructor, Dr. Howard R. Long, is not worried about getting to class. Chairman of the SIU Department of Journalism, Long is in Taipei as a visiting professor at the National Political University of the Free Chinese Republic. The class meetings probably will be conducted in the home he has rented there.

Workshop Oct. 19 For H.S. Paper, Yearbook Advisers

CARBONDALE, Ill. — Technical assistance will be offered area high school newspaper and yearbook advisers at a workshop Saturday, Oct. 19, at Southern Illinois University.

Co-sponsored by the SIU Department of Journalism and the Southern Illinois High School Press Association, the third annual meeting also will attract student editors and high school journalism teachers, according to Dr. Donald R. Grubb, director.

A "get acquainted" breakfast from 8 until 9:30 a. m. at the University Cafeteria will precede a general session at University School Studio Theater. At 10 a. m., Peter J. Notaras, former Du Quoin High School yearbook adviser and now an SIU graduate assistant, will lead a symposium on yearbooks. Donald W. Moore, Centralia Junior College newspaper, will conduct a newspaper symposium.

New directors for SIHSPA will be elected at a business meeting before the noon luncheon at Woody Hall.

Main feature of the afternoon program, beginning at 1 p. m., will be conferences where advisers may bring their problems to engravers, printers, lithographers, and other specialists.

Kirby Browning, Benton High School yearbook adviser, will lead another session on yearbooks, while Moore resumes his newspaper symposium. A 3 p. m. adjournment is planned.
